LONDON, Nov. 16.—A heavy toll of dead and wounded was being counted in London today as the result of one of the most terrific night aerial raids in recent weeks.

Five hundred German bombers were estimated to have dropped thousands of tons of high explosive and incendiary bombs on the capital during the night in an apparent attempt to duplicate the raid that laid the industrial city of Coventry in ruins the previous night with more than 1,000 dead and injured.

PA NEW C OBSERVES

New Castle high school football game scheduled with Warren, O. high school today, was postponed until next Thursday, because of snow and weather conditions at the Warren field.

First touch of winter hit this district this morning when the thermometer recorded about 20 degrees.

Some traffic conditions were treacherous, due to icy and slippery highways.

Toylands are opening for the 1940 holiday season, and from now on until Christmas they will be the center of a lot of interest on the part of the youngsters.

Traffic on the Youngstown hill highway was treacherous Friday night with the first glazing of ice, making autos skid backwards and finally making it imperative for some to turn back for backtracking down the hill and go around via Scotland Lane. A steady line of cars and transport trucks made the hill dangerous, and several accidents were narrowly evaded by several of the drivers.

One bewildered hunter had the experience of shooting what he thought was a pheasant, and when the bird fell to the ground, found it was a crow.

As a seaman acquires his "sea legs" aboard ship, so folks this morning commenced acclimating themselves to "ice walking" by treading warily.

Garages and battery stations were quite busy this morning taking care of "ailments" accruing to automobiles in freezing weather. Folks being unprepared for this weather had radiators frozen, and weak batteries had to be changed, having been "run down" starting the car.

'Annihilation Tactics' New German Program

BERLIN, Nov. 16.—Using new "annihilation tactics," Germany's air force henceforth intends to blast and level England's industrial and military key-points, step by step, authorities in Berlin declared today.

The prime objective of the German bombers, acting under orders of Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering, will be complete paralysis of the British war machine, these authorities declared.

The midlands town of Coventry was "first on the list," it was stated in Berlin, and second was an unnamed provincial town in southern England.

"Dawn today found this town a shambles," German quarters said.

EDITOR'S NOTE: The latest British air ministry communique described heavy night air attacks on London but stated that German air activity elsewhere was comparatively light.

At the same time, German quarters added, the violence of the aerial drive against London was increased during the night and the British capital was rocked by several hundred tons of high explosives.

Ford Sees 'Big Brother' Role To World For U. S.

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—Henry Ford visualizes the United States as the future "big brother" among nations of the world so that "at the proper time"—it can call a halt on war.

He does not think this country will get into the war as a belligerent.

In an exclusive interview today, Mr. Ford attributed the cause of war to "pure ignorance" on the part of the people whose nations are involved in the gigantic conflict.

"If either Great Britain or Germany wins the war, there will be another war," Mr. Ford said. "If neither side wins, and America is the 'big brother' and makes them quit this senseless fighting, that will put an end to war. Then, the people can go back to work the land of their countries and produce for their own benefit, and for the benefit of mankind."

"I hope neither side will win. I think this is going to be the last war. Whoever wins will lose, paradoxical as that may sound."

ATHENS, Nov. 16.—Victorious Greek warriors have achieved new successes against the Italian invaders in the Koritz and Pindus sectors, it was announced here today.

All the southern and eastern heights of the Morova and Koritz sectors have been occupied by Greek troops as the result of fierce fighting. Other Greek forces have also occupied new positions on the highways south of Koritz, imperiling the transportation of supplies to the Italian forces.

In the Pindus sector the Greeks have recaptured all the villages that had previously been taken by the Italians.

Retreating Italians sacked and burned the town of Koritz.

Will Disclose Activities Of Nazi Consuls

(BULLSTIN)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—Rep. Martin Dies (D., Texas), chairman of the house committee investigating un-American activities, said today that he would recommend that the committee release a report disclosing propaganda activities of Nazi consuls and agents in this country.

Dies said that he would propose this method instead of asking the consuls to testify before the committee.

"In the first place," Dies said, "they could decline to appear on ground of diplomatic immunity. In the second place, it might lead to retaliatory measures."

Ashing Crews Get First Workout Of New Winter Season

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 16.—Ash crews had their first taste of winter duty today in the wake of last night's freeze that coated streets and highways with thin but treacherous coatings of ice.

Motorists were warned by the Automobile club of Pittsburgh to drive carefully as "at midnight all roads leading out of Pittsburgh were very icy and dangerous."

Pittsburgh streets and regional highways were dry this morning, with only occasional ice patches. The night's icing condition developed as a steady fall of light snow, melting as it struck and then freezing, was felt over most of western Pennsylvania.

Even the Pennsylvania turnpike shared in the accident tally from the wintry hazard when a Philadelphia woman was injured as her car skidded into a cinder track.

In Pittsburgh a Carrick woman, Mrs. Irene Cancelli, 25, suffered a fractured skull in a pileup of half a dozen cars on the Liberty bridge. The machine driven by her husband skidded and the other cars slid into each other behind it.

ATHENS, Nov. 16.—Heavy casualties were inflicted upon Italian troops caught under heavy British bombing raids near Koritzza in Albania, it was claimed today, while the Greek high command announced 700 more Fascist prisoners had been captured in sweeping Grecian advances.

An official R. A. F. communique issued in Athens said an Italian motor column had been bombed and machine-gunned north of Koritzza, Italy's chief Albanian military base and added that explosives had demolished an Italian army headquarters and wrecked a bridge used to bring up Italian reinforcements.

Caught By Surprise
"A large number of troops were caught by surprise and the casualties were almost certainly heavy," the British statement said.

The Grecian high command reported "great activity by infantry, artillery and aircraft" on the whole front with British and Greek planes continually strafing retreating Fascist forces. The Italians were reported facing isolation at both their flanks.

The British statement said that bombs destroyed many Italian military automobiles and trucks.

Three Italian and two Greek planes were shot down in aerial combats, it was announced, while Italian bombers were said to have carried out "indiscriminate" bombings of towns and villages in the Greek interior, injuring some civilians but missing military objectives.

Italians Admit British Inflict Terrific Damage

(International News Service)

ROME, Nov. 16.—Heavy British bombing attacks on Italian ports and troop concentrations on both sides of the eastern Mediterranean were admitted today by the Italian high command.

"Numerous" enemy planes slashed at the Italian city of Brindisi last night, while other units operating in Africa attacked Kassala, Assab, Direa and Giallo. Striking in retaliation for British bombing attacks on the main Italian naval base at Taranto, Fascist warplanes meanwhile showered the great British naval base at Alexandria, the statement said. No details of the raid were given.

Other Italian planes raked the British railway station at Marsa Matruh with bombs and started fires along the railway at Maten Bagush.

ROME, Nov. 16.—A large-scale enemy air raid on the Italian Adriatic Port of Brindisi was announced by the Fascist high command today.

The Washington Post sent a photographer to Fort Meade, in nearby Maryland, to get some pictures of how this famous World War training center was preparing again to receive thousands of young civil-

So he snapped a series of pictures showing the New Castle lad receiving the uniform, entering a private room with a sign notifying him he had 10 minutes to don the khaki and subsequently being inspected by Lieutenant J. W. Porter.

The picture appeared in a full page display of the Post with captions explaining that young McBride came from New Castle.

Heaviest Blows

(International News Service)

Europe moved closer to the long-dreaded total war of the air today.

While the English midlands raked through ruins in the wake of Germany's greatest single raid, British bombers apparently dealt one of the heaviest blows of the war to the mighty German port of Hamburg.

German authorities for the first time admitted dockyard areas had been damaged and that a number of apartment houses were destroyed in Hamburg. Indication of the intensity of the RAF raid was seen in the German high command's cryptic report that damage "was slight in comparison to the number of planes participating in the attacks."

Greece Claims New Successes
In the southern arena of war, Greece claimed new successes against Italy on the Koritzza and Pindus sectors. Victorious Greek warriors, after fierce fighting, have occupied all the southern and eastern heights of the Morova and Koritzza areas, Athens claimed.

As the European war on land and in the air grew hourly more fierce, speculation in Mexico was rife over the possibility that British agents sabotaged two of four German ships which fled the harbor of Tampico.

Major Shakeup Develops In N.L.R.B.

Three Officials Resign Posts

Follow Failure Of President To Reappoint Madden To Board

MADDEN GIVEN ANOTHER POST

By JACK VINCENT
International News Service Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—A major shakeup in the turbulent National Labor Relations Board started today after three key officials resigned in protest against President Roosevelt's action in naming a new member of the board.

The shakeup which will assume proportions of a general housecleaning, began when the president failed to reappoint J. Warren Madden, chairman of the board, to another term. Instead, Mr. Roosevelt named Dr. Harry A. Mills, Chicago economist and professor to the board and appointed Madden to the U. S. Court of Claims.

The nominations of both Mills and Madden to their new posts were sent to the senate yesterday. Mills was expected to be speedily confirmed probably next week. But a fight loomed over putting Madden on the claims court, a job that will pay him $12,500 a year in contrast to the $10,000 he received on the labor board.

As soon as the nominations were made three NLRB key officials resigned. They are Nathan Witt, secretary of the board, Thomas Emerson, associate general counsel and Alexander B. Hawes, chief administrative examiner.

Witt, Emerson and Hawes appeared merely to be beating the executioner. It had been a foregone conclusion that they would be forced to quit if Madden was not reappointed. All said in their letters of resignation that they were stepping out because the president had failed to reappoint Madden. Both Witt and Madden had been accused in testimony before a congressional investigating committee of being pro-GIO.

Greek bayonet charges which gained new positions were described as responsible for the perilous position of the Italian wings.

The Greeks, continuing their general offensive along the entire 120-mile front, were said to have regained more than 20 miles of Greek territory in the only part of Greece where Italian invaders can still be found.

Youngsters Do Well

The youngsters did their work in entertaining fashion. Pouring glamour on those young ladies is like carrying fans to the Eskimos, they have it, in hunk. With them were a bunch of young men who could hardly be described as glamorous but who were good fellows for the girls. Altogether the show did what the authors intended it to do, get laughs, and the three acts were full of them.

Between the acts the high school orchestra played a group of selections. The numbers were right out of the upper drawer and the young musicians put them over in their usual good form, thanks to Joe Reggole's direction.

At the end of the play Miss Clara Hartstuff, dramatics director, was presented with a bouquet of flowers for one more successful high school play. Miss Hartstuff comes up about twice a year with that sort of play.

SONS OF ITALY

President Samuel Bassano, announced today that a meeting of the Sons of Italy club will be held on Sunday afternoon in King Humbert hall, Division street, instead of the regular meeting place.

Still, we helped set up the evil mess that got Europe into this fix, and then sneaked out on it. How can we say it isn't our business when we helped make it?

FIVE HUNDRED NAZI BOMBERS RAID LONDON

a new German aerial drive to try to wipe out England's industrial areas.

Newspapers in London and all over the country demanded reprints. The London Daily Herald trumpeted the keynote:

"The Nazis must pay."

New scars defaced wide areas of the capital as a result of the Nazi night assault, which followed up the Coventry attack with deadly ferocity.

Seven Hospitals, Three Hotels, Two Convents, Two Motion Picture Theatres and One School Were Among the Targets Blasted by the German Bombers

Despite the extent of the attack, authorities asserted no vital services had been affected and little or no damage was inflicted upon military objectives.

Competent quarters estimated that the Germans used no less than 500 planes in their renewed "blitzkrieg" against London.

Rescuing Peak

Informed circles regarded the large-scale German attacks on Coventry and London and the British attacks on Berlin and Hamburg as evidence that the war in the air is beginning to reach its peak.

Every time the weather permits during coming weeks, they predicted, each side will increase the weight of its sky assaults over everwidening fronts.

The weight of explosive, lethal metal now being dropped by both sides is approaching proportions never dreamed of before, while the number of bombers engaged in these expeditions is steadily increasing.

Such was the case last night as from dusk to dawn explosive and incendiary bombs rained on the capital from the hundreds of light and heavy raiders swarming over the city.

An air ministry announcement said that a number of persons had been killed and injured in London, but that the number of casualties was not as great as "might have been expected in view of the weight of the attack."

Fires Still Burn At Coventry

Twenty-four hours after the black horror of the previous night's attack on Coventry broke over that midland industrial city, fires still smoldered in the wrecked shopping center, where block after block was leveled by tons of Nazi bombs.

The mayor of Coventry declared there would be no general evacuation, despite the terrific devastation, although thousands of homeless residents were being moved to temporary residences in other towns.

"We shall go on," he declared. "I shall go on in this city even if there is no room to sleep."

Lake Coventry, although in less concentrated degree, London this morning showed the grim results of the increasingly fierce Nazi raids.

EUROPE MOVES CLOSER TO LONG DREADED ATTACKS

vessels made a midnight dash from Mexican waters in an attempt to reach a friendly European port, one vessel was reported 15 miles off the coast and another was being towed back to port, its engines apparently crippled.

British Demand Revenge
Last night's raid on London was the heaviest the British capital has suffered in weeks. Hospitals, hotels, convents, movie theatres, a school, saloons and uncounted private homes were blasted by bombs.

Today the British press shouted for revenge. Urged the London Daily Herald:

"The Nazis must pay!"

Berlin claimed that several persons were killed and that a hospital and other "non-military" buildings were damaged in a night British attack on Hamburg. Authoritative German quarters claimed that eight R. A. F. planes were shot down.

London said that docks and oil plants were among objectives attacked at Hamburg and that British planes also attacked German air-dromes and invasion bases along the continental coast.

FOUR GERMAN SHIPS IN DASH

time circles were inclined to believe British agents may have sabotaged the German ships before they left.

The German freighters, which departed suddenly and mysteriously after spending 14 months in the harbor here, were the Phrygia, Orinoco, Rhein and Idarwald.

The Orinoco reported engine trouble and a Mexican tug went to its assistance. The identity of the ship on fire was not definitely known, but it was believed to be the Phrygia.

Members of the crew of the British vessel, Olive Bank, anchored in the port here, have been maintaining a close watch over the four German ships. As soon as the German vessels were seen moving out, the British ship started sending wireless messages.

It is possible that a British warship may have been waiting for the German ships outside the harbor, but there have been no reports here to indicate the presence of one.

The German ships obtained clearance papers yesterday. Three of them reported the Canary Islands as their destination and the fourth claimed it was going to Vigo, Spain.

fense activities and the prospect that eventually the slack of unemployment will be taken up, the famous Detroit automobile manufacturer announced he was for the continuance of the eight-hour day and the five-day week.

Plan To Beautify State Turnpike

(International News Service)
GARDEN CITY, Long Island, Nov. 16.—Plans to make the $70,000,000 Pennsylvania turnpike "the most beautiful as well as the most modern" highway in the country stood revealed here today following a speech by a Pennsylvania turnpike commission official.

Addressing the Long Island association roadside committee, William T. Staats, assistant to the turnpike commission chairman, said advance crews were already at work on a $2,611,000 WPA project designed to beautify the 160-mile super highway and protect its sides from erosion. In all, 2,000 men will be employed at the task, which will be completed some time next year. The Harrisburg-to-Pittsburgh express road has been open since October 1.

The men will plant millions of trees, obtained from state nurseries, vines, shrubs and flowers along the right-of-way. The WPA will pay the wages, while the turnpike commission will furnish the tools and other supplies.

British Planning Blockade Extending

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—The British government, through its embassy, today announced an extension of its blockade to include additional far flung French possessions.

"The 'Navicert' system of clearance of vessels will be imposed effective November 18, upon ships clearing for or from French West Africa, Madagascar, Reunion Island and Syria. The control also will apply to Liberia and Portuguese Guinea."

The embassy statement made it clear that all vessels plying to or from these points would be subject to seizure unless provided with ship Navicerts.

King George Makes Coventry Visit

(International News Service)
LONDON, Nov. 16.—King George today visited the bomb-wrecked industrial city of Coventry, victim of the war's worst German aerial raid.

His Majesty spent considerable time touring the devastated areas. Accompanied by Herbert Morrison, minister for security, the king talked and sympathized with the homeless, deeply anxious regarding arrangement for immediate alleviation of distress in the district.

Lord Beaverbrook, minister for aircraft production, spent the entire day touring Coventry and inspecting factories vital to Britain's war effort.

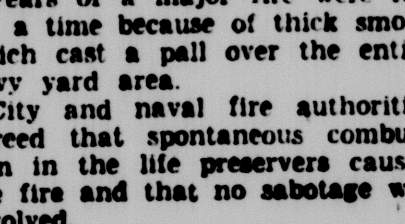

SMALL FIRE AT U. S. NAVY YARD

(International News Service)
BOSTON, Nov. 16.—Spontaneous combustion today caused a $500 fire in building 22 at the Charlestown navy yard. Most of the damage was confined to life preservers stored in the building.

Fears of a major fire were felt for a time because of thick smoke which cast a pall over the entire navy yard area.

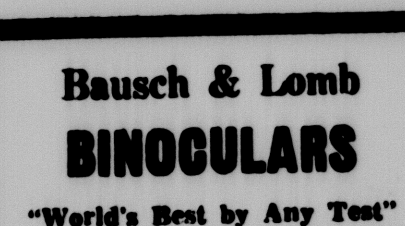

City and naval fire authorities agreed that spontaneous combustion in the life preservers caused the fire and that no sabotage was involved.

MARVIN-MUSE WEDDING IN HIGHLAND CHURCH

In the Highland U. P. church this morning at 11:30 o'clock, Miss Doris Mae Marvin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lee Marvin, of Garfield avenue, became the bride of Jack William Muse, of Cleveland, who formerly made his home with Mr. and Mrs. Roy Updegraff of Winter avenue.

Before an altar, beautifully decorated with palms, ferns and huge white chrysanthemums interspersed with gleaming candelabra, the vows were exchanged with Dr. D. L. Ferguson officiating. He used the single ring service.

Proceeding the ceremony, Mrs. J. L. Reed, organist, presented a recital of traditional nuptial music and played favorite melodies of the bride, throughout the service.

Mrs. Marvin, the bride's mother, chose a grape harvest frock with river blue accessories, and her shoulder corsage was of orchid baby mums. Mrs. Updegraff was attired in a soldier blue ensemble with black accessories and she wore a dainty corsage of harmonizing baby mums.

After the ceremony, a wedding breakfast was served in the bride's home for members of the immediate families.

Mrs. Jennie Budd, past president of the Rebekah Assembly, Mrs. Mae Beck of Sharon, a member of the Board of Controls, and Victoria Englehart, mother advisor of the Sharpville lodge also spoke.

Mrs. Marie Roof presented each honored guest with gifts. Miss Sumner then presented Mrs. Roof with a lovely gift for her past service and aid.

A brief program followed: "A Story in Flannel Gram," beautifully portrayed by Anna Ruth Snyder; duet, June and Dorothy Young; reading, Edna Hanna; solo, Rose Aucher, of Sharon and a piano solo, Mary Catherine Williams.

IN THE NELSON TRADITION

In future years, when peace prevails in England and the historian writes his epics of valor, a fair measure of space will no doubt be given to Capt. E. S. F. Fegen of the merchant cruiser Jervis Bay, which went down in mid-Atlantic under the guns of a powerful German raider.

Battling alone against overwhelming odds, the Jervis Bay made it possible for 32 ships of a convoy of thirty-eight to escape the raider. It was a hopeless fight to begin with, at least in so far as the Jervis Bay was concerned. It was only a matter of time before the ship would go down. But it had a job to do before it sank and it did this job in a brilliant fashion.

Then, while the captain stood in the wreckage of the bridge, with his arm shot away, and while every last gun of the ship was blazing away at the enemy and flames were fast consuming the hulk, the Jervis Bay went down in glory.

An account of this engagement brings to mind the last hours of Nelson, with an eye gone, an arm shot away, leading his ships to victory at Trafalgar and dying on the deck. A man in humble position, Captain Fegen was made of the same heroic fiber and animated by the same dauntless spirit.

And it was this same spirit that brought a crushing defeat to Italian naval power in the Mediterranean and revealed more clearly than ever before why Hitler is destined to fail in his attempt to rule the world.

TOO MANY THANKSGIVING DAYS

There is certainly little to be thankful for in the scrambled Thanksgiving Day situation facing Pennsylvania.

In accordance with the president's proclamation, fixing the third Thursday, 32 states will give thanks on November 21. But not Pennsylvania. Through the action of Governor James this commonwealth joins 15 other states scattered over the country whose people, officially at least, will give thanks only on November 28.

The nearest of these states to us is Connecticut to the north and North Carolina to the south. On November 21 our business houses and schools, but not our post offices, will remain open; our banks will close but stock exchanges turned to New York, will close that day and will remain open November 28. Private schools and colleges with students in "November 21 states" will have an intricate problem to dispose of and so will the railroads.

In other words, on November 21 Pennsylvania will be an island of nonconformity while millions all around us will be giving thanks and eating turkey, and a week later the Keystone State will be enjoying a lonesome holiday.

This sort of thing is neither desirable nor necessary. Arguments in favor of the earlier date are apparently as good this year as they were in 1939—the longer interval before Christmas seems to have been of real benefit to retail business.

Pennsylvania and most of the states accepted the president's decision in this matter last year. It is a pity it was not concurred in this year, in view of the confusion that is an inevitable result.

The pulling and hauling over the date now has killed off virtually all of the famous football classics of "Turkey Day." But the colleges can hardly be blamed if they threw up their hands and called holiday games off, because they couldn't figure which day would be Thanksgiving Day in a particular state when they were making their schedules.

It is too late to do anything about all this for 1940, but it is to be hoped that there will be no repetition of the incident in future years. There should be a single national Thanksgiving Day, fixed, as in the past, by proclamation of the President of the United States. If it is worked out that way next year most people will have additional cause to be thankful.

BASES IN LANDS TO SOUTH

Almost all of the Latin-American countries have entered into agreements to permit the United States to use naval and air bases in their respective countries for purposes of hemisphere defense. Fear that the United States might exercise too real a hegemony was measurably allayed last August at the Havana Conference of Foreign Ministers.

That fear has been notably lessened by the fact that this country is not seeking to lease these bases, but to use them jointly. This gets rid of the embarrassing question of sovereignty. Good feeling is heightened by Uncle Sam's offering to let any of the twenty republics that so desired use the bases in the New World he has recently acquired from the British on long-term leases.

This reciprocity is the more notable in that it was worked out in the weeks immediately preceding the presidential election. Some of these nations, unfamiliar with American ways as with American language, had natural concern as to how a change of administration might affect hemisphere defense plans, but obviously were convinced by Secretary Hull that the program would go through in any event. A few nations even offered to cede bases to the United States. This nation's refusal to accept such concessions was a gesture of good will toward the whole area to the south.

Each of the nations concerned will provide and man its own bases, but can avail itself of American advice and financial assistance, when necessary, as well as anti-aircraft ships. But the bases on both coasts will provide space for American ships and housing for American air-planes in force. In almost every instance details remain to be worked out, but a pretty uniform fear of totalitarian aggression if the Axis wins the war about should impel agreement.

On the economic side the problems are as vast in an area that normally looks to Europe for the bulk of its foreign trade and stands in dread of forced barter in postwar days. The whole question of establishing foreign credits, seeking new markets, changing from an almost totally agricultural to a partly industrial basis has barely been scratched. It is a transition that cannot come about over night.

The war is now expected to engross public attention, but it cannot be nearly so diverting as the campaign was.

Mussolini and Hitler may be struggling for their favorite piece of chicken, but both will have to do without Turkey for the time being.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Meyers, Ph. D.

RHYTHM IN MATHEMATICS

Most of us learned the multiplication tables in groups of 2's, 3's and 4's. We said: "2 times 1 are 2, 2 times 2 are 4, 2 times 3 are 6," and so on. The 9 times was the last one and seemed the hardest. Some of us also learned the tables of 10's, 11's and 12's. Few do nowadays. However, most children today learn the multiplication tables about as we did.

There is something about the rhythm and order of these tables that make them easy. But after you have learned a table, say of 7's and know it perfectly you might have trouble meeting up with a combination out of its order. I remember, for example, that for a long while after I could say the table of 7's rapidly and accurately, I would have trouble when I had to multiply 6 by 7 or 9 by 7. I could not get either one until I had said over all the rest of the table of 7's from the beginning to the combination wanted. Other adults tell me they must do so still with certain multiplication facts. I have found numerous school children who must.

Facts As Facts
It is a much better practice to learn each multiplication fact as a fact alone, therefore, not to learn it in a table of 2's, 3's, 4's and the like. Accordingly, the child would learn, for example, the fact, 2 times 7 are 14, 6 times 4 are 24, then 3 times 9 are 27. This is just as I suggested the learning of each of the 100 addition and 100 subtraction facts. In ordinary experience with numbers we don't stay in the table of any one group. They come at random. Why not learn them so?

A good way is to write down all the tables, then cut them up, shuffle the slips of paper, draw them by chance and copy each combination as you draw it. Then you will have a sheet of all the multiplications which the child will need to memorize.

If you do so, be sure not to have the child attack more than three of these facts at a sitting. The child saves time if right after he memorizes the fact, "3 times 7 are 21," he also memorizes the fact, "7 times 3 are 21." He might know one without knowing the other.

Table Talk
The chances are that your child will have to learn his tables at school in groups as you did. If this is the way it is done at school don't interfere. Encourage the child to go on the school way. You might, however, induce him to practice in any such table by having them out of order. Say he has learned the table of 4's. Induce him to cut the pairs up in slips and shuffle the slips and then try himself out on them, being careful to look at each product if in doubt.

Encourage him never to use any multiplication, addition or subtraction fact in a problem until he has first memorized this fact. Let him learn by heart each number fact first then use it as soon as possible thereafter.

I still have on hand copies of the 100 addition and 100 subtraction facts which every child should learn by heart before the age of nine or ten, since he will use them all the rest of his life. You may have without cost, a copy of each by writing me at 235 East 45th Street, New York City, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it.

Solving Parent Problems
Q. Are formal parties helpful to the timid, lonely, non-social child? A. No; they make him more timid and non-social as a rule. What he needs is informal mingling at play with one or several children constantly.

Q. Is there any sense in rebuking or punishing a child of 10 or 16, while in a rage, he is throwing objects or using abusive language? A. No; any talk by the parent at the time only enrages the child more. Be as cool, then, as a cucumber. I suppose cucumbers are cool. Wait several hours or days for an opportune time when you and the child are wholly calm and poised. Then gently remind him of the way he acted and ask him if he would not like to try to change himself when annoying situations arise, assuring him you would like to help him in any way you can.

Good Taste

By E. S. Polent Office

"I have three daughters who have, respectively, blue, brown and green eyes," writes a mother. "What colors would each find most becoming?"

Answer: I your blue-eyed daughter is a typical blonde with golden hair and fair skin, she should look best in dresses, suits, coats and hats of blue, blue-purple, purple, blue green, all of which will bring out the blue in her eyes. If she is of the Irish type with blue-black hair in combination with her blue eyes she should look best in these same colors if her complexion is fair. But if she is sallow, the duller blues, blue-greens, greens and purples will suit her best.

Your brown-eyed daughter, if a typical brunette, should look best in yellow, yellow-orange, orange, red-orange, red, brown and perhaps dull, dark red-purple.

Your daughter with greenish eyes will look best in the greens, especially the jade greens.

Other Readers' Questions Answered

Question: This is a point which I have never clearly understood. If a very dear friend suffers a bereavement and I call to express my sympathy personally, must I also write her a letter of condolence?—Reba.

Answer: If you see the bereaved person and express your sympathy you need write no letter. Should she be "not at home" when you call, you may leave your visiting card with your message of condolence written thereon. When distance prohibits such a call, a letter should be written immediately upon receiving word of the death.

Question: I would like to be married on Sunday, which would be more convenient than any other day. Several of my friends insist that this "is not done." Nancy.

Answer: There are some churches which will not permit marriages to take place on Sunday. If yours is not among this class there is no reason why you may not be married on that day. It is rather unusual for some Christians to be married on Sunday, although many Jewish people choose that day.

JUST THE RIGHT JOB

Some mothers want their sons to grow up and be doctors. Others fancy the law as a career while others think engineering isn't a bad line to enter.

Of course most of them would like to see their sons turn out to be presidents. One of them went into detail about it.

"Certainly I want George to be president," she said. "Naturally he'd have to start out being a politician and even if he never got to be president he wouldn't ruin his health by working hard."

We call this the richest nation, but the sad truth is that it hasn't enough money to pay what people owe on their cars, homes, farms, household equipment and public improvements.

What's What At A Glance

Plenty Of Unity On Preparedness
Nation Divided On Other Matters
Wan' Willkie In Post Of Critic

By CHARLES F. STEWART
(Central Press Columnist)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 16.—

While there'll be plenty of unity behind President Roosevelt on the national defense issue, indications already are multiplying in Washington as politicians get back to the capital from the recent hustings, that there won't be a super-abundance of it relative to other administration policies. Men prominently identified with the losing side in the late campaign, speaking for publication, give the impression that they're all for non-partisan solidarity, lest they be accused of hostility to our preparedness program, or of sore-headedness at least. In confidential chats, however, many of them take quite a different tone.

Even confidentially they declare emphatically for any amount of nationally defensive activity, of course. But they'd rather not have Wendell Willkie officially identified with it, because they think such a connection would tend to silence him concerning other New Deal doings in general. They don't want him back in the public utility business, either, reckoning that that would tend to hush him up. The argument is that he can make all the money he needs practicing law independently, leaving him free to say whatever he likes on the subject of the New Dealers' management henceforward. Then, whenever he considers this management entirely wrong, his counsellors figure that he'll be in a position to give it a terrific blast, and they believe that it must be more effective than any alternative critic's could be.

Want Willkie Outside

The election returns were hardly in before it was suggested that Wendell would be an ideal individual for President Roosevelt to absorb into his governmental organization. Republican strategists do not want him so absorbed. They want him altogether on the outside, raising Cain at every favorable opportunity.

This doesn't sound like genuine wishfulness for 100 per cent unity.

A joking but ill-natured suggestion also is being passed around in Washingtonian anti-New Deal circles to the effect that, now we have a dictator (such being the jokers' assumption, on the third term basis), he ought to be entitled to a regulation form of salute, similar to the Nazi or Fascist up-arm gesture accorded to Herr Hitler and Signor Mussolini. The proposal is to raise the open right hand, with wiggling fingers, and press the thumb against the nose.

I don't call that notion particularly unified, either.

F. D. R. himself, returned to Washington from Hyde Park after election day, seems exceptionally undictatorial. At his past press conferences he's averaged, in his contacts with the newspaper boys, not a bit overbearing but a bit superior—smilingly so, but inclined to treat 'em as mere kids. Now all that edge is off. The impression he gives is that he's heard this dictator talk (as naturally he has) and is going out of his way to demonstrate that he's no such thing.

He was the National Press club's dinner guest the other night, though there's no doubt that a great majority of the Washington correspondents were against him during the campaign. He got a grand reception, too—but a lot of it was mere hospitality. However, he made the date before election day. Possibly, though, he had it in mind to placate the crowd in advance, for there's no doubt that the club likes to get notabilities like himself on its list of visitors. It cost a good bunch of simulators to eat with him.

Less Dictatorial?

At that, I imagine he'll be less dictatorial in manner during his third term than he always was before, for the simple reason that he knows he's accused of it.

But unity on Capitol Hill?

It'll be there if we get into the war, and it will be there in the meantime, on the subject of preparedness.

Otherwise, if I'm any judge of the chatter I hear from Republican and Democratic anti-New Deal politicians and from newspapermen from all over the country, it won't be noticeable.

It's preached, but it remains to be seen if it will be practiced.

And there are good authorities who say it shouldn't be practiced, moreover. Their contention is that democracy needs a strong minority opposition to any government.

Effect Upon The Courts

WASHINGTON, NOV. 16.

DURING the campaign slight attention was given to the effect upon the courts of the country of a third consecutive term for Mr. Roosevelt. Since the election, however, certain names suggested for District Federal judgeships—for example, that of Senator Minton, of Indiana, who was defeated for re-election—have compelled the consideration of thoughtful members of the bar.

WHAT they foresee they do not like. And if what has happened to the courts in the last eight years is the yardstick by which to measure the future, their forebodings are amply justified. In that period the President has named five of the nine Supreme Court Justices, seventy-nine of the one hundred and sixty-one District Federal judges, and thirty-six of the fifty-six Circuit court of appeals judges. In another four years it is safe to assume he will have at least two more vacancies on the Supreme Court to fill and enough more of the District and Circuit Court judges to make the personnel of both overwhelmingly composed of appointees of a single President.

THIS is inevitable and natural and it would not worry members of the bar so much but for the fact that under Mr. Roosevelt, judicial appointments have been so consistently made, not on merit but because of the political affiliations and views of the appointee. Neither knowledge or the law, the possession of the well-known judicial temperament nor experience has been incidental. The prime requisites have been sympathetic adoption of the New Deal philosophy and complete belief in the New Deal policies.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

THE HOBO

Have New Castle and Lawrence county people ever heard of Jeff Davis, "King of the Hoboes"? Perhaps some of them have, but it is likely that not only New Castle and Lawrence county people but the citizens of this nation have forgotten about hoboes; forgotten that there are any of them left after all the relief and W.P.A. expenditures on the part of the government, but the real hobo is not looking for relief. He has been a very colorful American institution—as different from the I.W.W. wildcays, as Robin Hood was different from Pancho Villa. The hobo knows nothing about Karl Marx, harbors no class hatreds, and nurses no grievances against men who live in homes and raise families. He simply feels sorry for them as he roams on, ever restless, but foot-loose and carefree and harmless. As a matter of fact, he boasts that a tramp won't work a bum is not able to work, but a hobo will work or casually.

Now, the hoboes still have a king. Just like the gypsies and their king is much the same as the gypsies. Following the Draft Act Jeff Davis gave this royal command to his subjects:

"Get off the road and either into the army or into a defense job. This is no time to be gazing at the scenery. It is the nation's most critical moment—not hour."

According to Davis's order went by word of grapevine, to some million men. He predicts that the hobo reaction would be immediately felt in a nationwide spurt of new blood and energy in defense.

Maybe, now, the hobo will fight as "King Davis" grandly predicts. But most likely the confinement of camp and the rigor of discipline will send any true hobo "over the hill"—patriotism or no patriotism—and back into the ranks of the open road. Uncle Sam won't bank much on "King Davis" hobo army, but if war should come, the hobo wanderer might still serve in his own particular fashion, in a world engaged in turmoil of war, as a strangely sane symbol of the true freedom from struggle and from weight of care and anxiety for which all men eternally long.

Bible Thought For Today

Three Services At Arlington Church

Sunday is expected to be a red letter day in the revival campaign now in progress at the Free Methodist church, located on Arlington avenue, when Evangelist McKay, nationally known evangelist from Greenville, Ill., will preach three times.

In the morning, at 11 o'clock, the subject will be "New Castle's Greatest Evil." A great mass meeting will be held in the afternoon at 3 o'clock. At that time, Rev. McKay will deliver his lecture entitled "America's Only Hope." In the evening at 7:30 "The Coming Famine in the Light of Bible Prophecy" will be the subject used.

The campaign closes Sunday, November 24. Rev. Paul C. Millard is pastor of the church.

Start Revival At Coaltown Church

Rev. Alice Clifton, from the family altar staff of a Greensburg radio station, will hold a revival meeting in the Coaltown Free Methodist church, November 19 to December 1.

Rev. Clifton will need no introduction to this section as she is well known as an excellent preacher. The staff will provide the singing during this campaign, with special quartets, trios, and duets from night to night. Services will be held every night, with the exception of Saturday night, at 7:45 o'clock.

Guest Speaker At St. Paul's Church

This will be his first appearance in our community in this capacity.

The local pastor, Rev. A. M. Stump, will preside at the services.

REV. THORNTON CHOOSES INTERESTING SUBJECTS

Two interesting subjects will be discussed at Epworth Methodist church Sunday by Rev. William A. Thornton. At the morning service he will speak on "Headaches and their Cause," a sermon based on a story of a preacher whose difficulties and discouragements were getting the better of him and how relief came.

The evening sermon, entitled "The Fatal Barter," is a novel treatment of a familiar text and includes the stirring poem by Cale Young Rice entitled "The Mystic." The Epworth choir, under the direction of Mrs. Anna Pyle, has prepared an other excellent program of music for the day.

RETURNED MISSIONARY WILL SPEAK SUNDAY

Sunday morning, a guest speaker will be heard in the Gospel Tabernacle, 210 Pearson street, during the 10:45 worship hour. The speaker will be Rev. Enos Hess, a missionary returned from the Belgian Congo, Africa.

MORE ABOUT SINUSITIS
Yesterday I wrote of sinuses and why sinusitis is common. Today I will discuss treatment.

In treating an acute attack of sinus infection in either a child or adult, one of the first things to do is take measures to reduce the inflammation and the swelling of the nasal wall at the entrance to the sinus. The infection in the sinus usually causes a swelling of the passage from the sinus to the nose and when this happens the pus obviously cannot drain out as it should. When this happens, the sinus keeps becoming reinfected by the pus.

The best place for a person with a sinus attack is bed, and there it is a good idea to apply calomel to the nose to reduce the swelling, and to keep applying warm packs or hot water bottles to the forehead, the nose and cheek to help decrease the inflammation. A liquid diet is best.

In treatment by a physician, various drugs will be sprayed or painted over the infected areas every two or three hours. These also tend to reduce swelling and help in draining pus from the cavity.

These measures nearly always bring an end to the infection—often as it is religiously carried out. Occasionally however, they fail, and then a minor operation is resorted to.

The number of operations on sinuses has declined in recent years. Because experience showed that once you start operating, then further operations were often needed. The trouble would recur and then there would have to be another operation. Today surgery is resorted to only in the worst cases. Naturally, if a definite cause is found for the sinusitis, it should be removed if possible. By that I mean that if a diseased upper tooth has infected an antrum, the tooth should be extracted. If it isn't, then the trouble will return.

I have also found that growths in the nose often need to be removed if proper drainage is to be established for the sinuses. Polyps, or growths in the nose, are often a nuisance and cause complications when a sinus is diseased. I remember one patient I had who had a number of these growths in his nose. Every winter I removed them, and they grew in again. Finally in despair of curing him, I sent him down to Toronto to a specialist. There he had them removed again, and was given treatment calculated to keep them from recurring. But next year he had them again. Until he died, that was my annual job—removing those polyps.

The acute sinusitis, as I have said before, is comparatively easy to treat, and that is the reason I counsel mothers to watch their children for signs of this trouble. If it is allowed to run along for a while, then it may become chronic. When sinus trouble does become chronic, then the job of curing it is really difficult. The ordinary methods I have told you of above are of little use. Often an opening will have to be made from the sinus to the nasal passage, and the sinus washed out and drained. This treatment may have to be repeated, and in really stubborn cases it is often necessary to make two openings into the sinus.

Speer Morousis, was chosen as the drive chairman. William Lestas will be vice chairman and Miss Ethel Christensen secretary.

Speaking for the campaign's group, Chairman Morousis said today: "The public can participate in this effort to provide succor to the stricken residents of war-torn Greece, and all of us, here and over there, will be grateful for all the help we can get."

He said checks can be made out to the Greek War Relief Association, Inc., and mailed to John J. Maher at Citizens National Bank, Maher, Mayor Charles B. Mayne and other public officials are co-operating with the fund heads.

NEW CASTLE NEWS

OFF FOR GAIN—Detroit's Al Gheaguer, one of the better bats in the midwest, eludes a tackler during a night game.

Snowstorm Causes New Castle-Warren Game Postponement

Due to more than three inches of snow covering the Warren High football field today as a result of the severe snow storm of Friday, the New Castle High-Warren grid game scheduled for this afternoon has been postponed until Thursday afternoon at the request of the Warren High officials. The game next Thursday will start at 2 o'clock.

The Warren high principal telephoned to Principal Frank L. Orth of New Castle High about 8 o'clock last night and asked if the New Castle High officials would consider postponing the game until next Thursday as it was snowing hard at Warren, and a measurement of the snow on the field at that hour was three inches.

Principal Orth, after a consultation with Head Coach Phil Bridenbaugh and Faculty Manager Norman Nelson, called each of the members of the athletic council and it was decided to grant the request of the Warren High officials. Head Coach Bridenbaugh agreed upon it after giving the matter due consideration.

Next Thursday is Thanksgiving Day for the Ohioans, following the President's proclamation, and it is expected that the crowd will be much larger than it would have been if the game was played today. Tickets will be continued on sale at the Sporting Goods store at 105 North Mercer street until next Wednesday afternoon.

Bears To Play Butler Eleven

Bears Granted Use Of Taggart Stadium For Red Cross Game Thanksgiving

The Wabash Bears semi-pro football team will go to Butler on Sunday afternoon to battle the Butler Ex-High Stars at Butler Yankee field at 2:30 o'clock. It was announced. Willie Domenick, president of the Bears today announced that the Bears will play the Canton Bulldogs at Taggart Field Thanksgiving Day.

The team will meet at the club-rooms at 12 o'clock to make the trip to Butler. The Bears have been working out all week and are at their fullest strength for the Butler battle. It was announced by Coach Albert "Blackie" Adamo. Several new players will be seen with the Bears on Sunday it was indicated.

Butler has a strong eleven made up of ex-high and college stars and will be out to beat the Bears if they can. The Bears are trying to card a strong opponent for the closing of the season here next Sunday.

In scheduling the famous Canton Bulldogs, the Bears have hit on a fine team and one that will give the fans their money's worth. The game will be played as a benefit for the American Red Cross. It was announced by the committee handling the game.

Brownsville In Important Game

Altoona In Unbeaten Ranks But Refuse To Play For Championship

Brownsville high school football team meets Connellsville High this afternoon in a game that has the class AA championship at stake. Should the "Brownies" win they will become the class AA title holders, due to an undefeated record to date. Altoona High, also unbeaten, has refused to play a post-season title battle.

Should Brownsville and Connellsville tie, then New Castle would be very much in the picture, according to those who are the big mugs of the W. P. I. A. A., as New Castle's tie with Butler is the only blotch on the 1940 card. A New Castle-Brownsville title game could result if Connellsville upsets the dope and holds Brownsville even. A Brownsville defeat would make New Castle unofficial champs.

The Brownsville team has been undefeated in 32 games, dating back to 1937.

New Castle Rifle Club Wins Match

The New Castle Rifle club won a Penn-Ohio league match last night at the Cathedral range from the McDonald, O. team 953 to 951, with Wilbur Thomas of the local team being high man with 194. Bodine of the Ohio team was second high man with 193.

The results:

New Castle—Thomas 194, J. Moore 192, Finley 190, J. Williams 189, Hockenberry 188. Total, 953. Other New Castle scores: Hill 183, Gardner 188, Kilbreath 187, Hammond 176, W. Bowers 170, Treva Bowers 177, Gilch 182, G. Williams 170, Watson 185, Mowrey 184, Johns 186.

McDonald—Bodine 193, Garman 191, Donohue 190, Straitwell 189, Morris 188. Total, 951. Other McDonald scores: Respassmer 181, Schink 185.

The University of Missouri football team has been beset by injuries all season. Eight men were unable to play in the Nebraska game, and the Tigers were without the services of three of their regulars in the New York U. battle.

East, Midwest Battles Share Football Limelight

Headed by the eastern struggle between two of the nation's leading eleven, Boston College and Georgetown, the football slate for Saturday, Nov. 16, is a heavy one and loaded with conference clashes. Michigan and Northwestern fight it out at Ann Arbor in the best Western Conference tilt of the day.

Pitt and Nebraska headline the intersectional card. Oregon State tests Stanford. Notre Dame plays Iowa in its last home game. Duke and North Carolina collide in the south.

Saturday sport cocktail: "Lindy" Lauro, the ex-New Castle High line cracker specialist, has spread plenty of havoc around Illinois during the past season. Lauro has held down the quarterback post on the Roosevelt Military Academy eleven. He established his right to the berth shortly after entering the Alamo institution early in the fall.

In an interesting letter to Manuel Othles, one of his closest friends, Lauro states that the military eleven copped every game, winding up the campaign with a 52-0 slaughter of Corpus Christi. In the finale, the local seventh ward athlete dug his cleats into touchdown soil three times, dashing, 50, 25 and 35 yards. In addition, he fired three touchdown passes.

John Kulnis, who formerly toted the pigskin for New Castle High, is giving his opponents an idea of what to expect next season and the year after. At West Virginia Wesleyan, the 200-pound back got a chance against undefeated and untied Bethany. He literally tore the Bethany lines to shreds, piling up 166 yards in 32 times for an average of five and one-fifth yards per try.

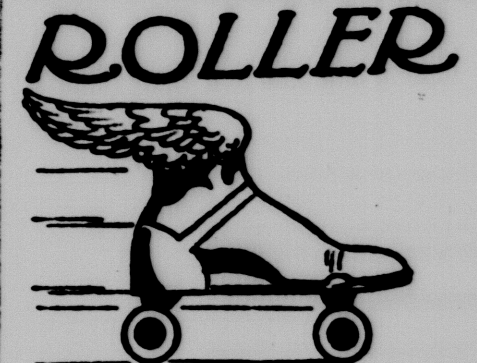

Up to Saturday, Allegheny College had lost 14 consecutive football games. The Gators' last triumph came in 1938. . . Westminsters' recent triumph over Geneva was the first in 11 years. . . Bernie Bierman, Minnesota's crack coach, is a captain in the United States Marines.

New Tribe Boss

Roger Peckinpaugh, above, has been named manager of the Cleveland Indians for the 1941-1942 seasons.

Manager Johnny Vergez, veteran infielder, sparked the pennant drive of the Oakland club in the Pacific Coast league.

FROM ME TO YOU

By MESEZALL
LOVE is the greatest thing in the world; The selfish love of our fellowman. The love of service, the love of work. That makes us do the best we can.
The love of giving, the love of friends, The love that seeks another's good; The love that brings to men a earth The lasting bond of brotherhood.
The love of gentleness, meekness, hope. The love of beauty, honor and right; The love of everything God has made To fill our world with joy and light.
The love of Nature, the love of Good. The love of all the beauty of earth. The love of kindness and faith and truth That give to a man his real worth.
The love of Home . . . that precious place Where Love should ever reign supreme. The love of loved-ones, the love of Love That just fulfills our every dream.
The love of the higher things of soul That lifts our gaze to the skies above. The love which holds us to the goal That love in God . . . for GOD IS LOVE!
To our friends who were married this morning . . . Jack Muse and Doris Marvin . . . we wish you all the happiness in the world and that you will live happily ever after.

Trend Is Lower

Support Appears But Rallying Tendencies Are Limited Today

By LESLIE GOULD
(International News Service Financial Writer)

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—The stock market slipped further today after yesterday's reaction.

Some of the blue chips were hard hit, showing losses exceeding 4 points. Declines in active leaders ran to more than 1 point.

Some support appeared in the later dealings but rallying tendencies were limited.

Turnover showed a marked contraction from last Saturday. Turnover of around 400,000 shares was less than half that of the week before.

Active prices were advancing. Allied Chemical broke over 4 points in the blue chips, and Norfolk & Western was down 4. Westinghouse lost 3 points.

In the active leaders, U. S. Steel and Chrysler dropped over a point each.

J. I. Case fell around 2 points, losing a large part of yesterday's advance.

Rails were under some pressure but most changes were small. There were active dealings in N. Y. Central and Pennsylvania at the start.

American Smelting led the coppers down with a drop of over a point. Oils sagged. Utilities continued backward.

American Telephone was one of the firm spots.

Born to Mr

Citizens Here Join Nation On Red Cross Rolls

Hope To Enroll Tenth Of County Residents As Members Of Red Cross

SERVICES OF CHAPTER GROW

Sixteen million young men have just enrolled for possible military service. Fifty million voters, men and women have recorded their will. The decision is history. There remains a third muster of Americans, this time in the annual Red Cross Roll Call.

Washington, D. C., has just pointed the way by enrolling one hundred and fifty-three thousand members, one in every four persons residing in the nation's capital. Other early roll calls indicate the biggest national enrollment since Armistice Day, twenty-two years ago. All Americans wish the Red Cross, the people's Red Cross, to be strong, alert and energetic in disaster relief, service to the army and navy, and to veterans, in accident prevention, in preservation of health and in all of its accustomed fields.

Lawrence County Chapter of the American Red Cross is no different from the other thirty-seven hundred chapters scattered throughout the United States. With Norman E. Clark as chairman of the Roll Call assisted by Harold McCullough as County Roll Call Chairman, a splendid group of men and women have been brought together to head the various divisions necessitated by a county wide Roll Call.

With Lawrence County's population around ninety-eight thousand people, it is the hope of the roll call committee to secure close to ten percent of this population in membership. With the work in the chapter daily increasing, it becomes necessary to enlarge the services to meet the demands.

The American Red Cross is part of the national defense. The United States Government has requested the increase in first-aid classes and the instruction of the younger women in Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick. This demand naturally falls upon the shoulders of the volunteer instructors in the chapter. Harry J. Cullford, chairman of First-Aid has forty-two instructors, some of them just recently qualified, and it is a task of large proportion confronting the old instructors assisted by the new ones.

The Junior Red Cross throughout the county is actively engaged in programs which bring out the great need of increased enrollment. A splendid health program, originated by the Juniors, must be carried on with the help of the chapter for it is now impossible to secure, without charge, the supplies used in this program.

Each Lawrence county person who enrolls as a member of the Red Cross becomes a stockholder in humanitarian preparedness, and also becomes a volunteer resource for work as needed. It is not for the purpose of war relief that the American Red Cross is seeking this great increase in membership. The membership of the Red Cross is never used for any program other than its own activities. The war relief program is carried on through the generosity of the American people who gave to the Red Cross War Fund.

In commenting on this present roll call, Mr. Clark invites each adult of Lawrence County to consider what his plight might be if he was deprived of home and food. If the individual can face problems alone such as are being faced by the unfortunate people of Europe, then and only then can we get along without the American Red Cross.

Any chance of a pheasant dinner for the court house attaché seems to have gone glimmering. When County Commissioner George H. Bolinger went to Potter county to hunt birds it was thought he would stage a dinner when he returned. He's back but no dinner. Not enough pheasants. No rabbits either.

Hunting up through the wilds along the Neshannock river returned an automobile for Earl Raysor of New York avenue, Youngstown, O. Thursday afternoon. A friend of the office about noon saying that he had come across a new automobile hidden away in a gully along the creek.

One of the attorneys of the Lawrence County Bar Association has a check in payment of a judgment he secured for a client which has a peculiar notation upon it. Down in the left hand corner of the check the following is written in ink, "May God forgive all those who lied in order to steal this gold. They know not what they do. They may stumble and fall some day."

It was "Happy Birthday" around the court house for Tipstaff Thomas Hinkson Friday. The young man was eighty three years of age and is still full of pep.

Before Judges W. Walter Braham and Thomas W. Dickey on Friday morning the appeal of James Ross for a new trial was argued. Ross was convicted in the September term of court on a charge of robbery of the A&P store on South Mercer along with two other young men. He claims that he was not a party to the robbery and just happened to be outside the store when the police arrived. Decision will come later.

A short hearing was held Friday morning by Judge W. Walter Braham in the case of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania versus Nick Toschi. Toschi has pleaded nolle contendere to a charge of illegally accepting relief but the Commonwealth has gone farther in this case than it usually does. It filed a bill of discovery claiming that Toschi had some HOLC bonds. The hearing was to develop where the bonds are. Toschi claims he has cashed and spent the money.

DAILY DOZEN

(From the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania)

Tuberculosis will kill 4,100 Pennsylvanians this year.

There are 40,000 persons ill with the disease in the state.

Half the deaths will be among those 15 to 44 years old.

Tuberculosis does not just happen to a person.

It is always caused by germs from one who is tubercular.

In its early stages, tuberculosis is too often overlooked.

When illness becomes apparent, the disease is well advanced.

It has then likely been spread already to other persons.

The chief treatment for tuberculosis is unobtrusive rest.

There is no substitute for rest treatment.

All persons, especially children, should have periodic examinations. Prevention or early treatment are better than ignorance and death.

SMOKE SCARE
City firemen were called to the Withers Apartments at the corner of Highland avenue and Leasure avenue, at 1 o'clock this morning, by an alarm from Box 27. They found that hot wood ashes from a grate had been dumped into an ash pit in the cellar, and smoke from them seeped out and into the building. There was no loss.

The most northerly people in the world are said to be the Eskimos of Smith Sound, Greenland.

French Collapse To Be Described By Eye Witness

H. R. Knickerbocker To Give Uncensored Account In Cathedral Address

Just what happened to the French armies in their defense against the Germans has been partially hinted at, partially told, and largely guessed from censored dispatches. Tonight H. R. Knickerbocker, noted war correspondent will give an eye witness account of what happened to the French, when he speaks in the Cathedral under the auspices of the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Knickerbocker was at the very front of the French lines when the Germans came pouring through, then with the truce signed he fled to London aboard a freighter. In London he was under fire almost nightly. On a number of occasions he sat on the Dover cliffs and watched the German bombers dropping their load of death over England.

His story is a gripping one for he tells it with the same unusual power of description that marks his dispatches. Preceding Mr. Knickerbocker on the program will be a band concert by the American Legion Band.

Plan To Send Gifts To Polish Soldiers

Although Poland has been subjugated by the German forces, there are still thousands of Polish boys fighting side by side with the British forces, determined to win back for their country the freedom it once had.

As a reminder that the people of the United States and especially those of Polish origin appreciate the sacrifice of the Polish soldiers, an effort is being made to send every one of them some small gift for Christmas.

To raise funds for this purpose a dance will be held in the K. P. hall on Atlantic avenue, Saturday night, November 23rd and the proceeds from this dance will go towards purchasing tobacco for the Polish volunteers.

The dance idea was originated by the K. P. club but it is being joined in by every Polish organization in the city.

Bringing more boys into the world isn't the only such system. We also encourage the hatching of more ducks so we'll have more to shoot.

"JUST A STEP AHEAD"

Biggest Thirst Ever

Speaking of superlatives, owner of the world's biggest thirst is the American "Iron Horse". To satisfy this craving railroads of the United States annually consume almost 600 billion gallons of water. Simplifying the fabulous amount somewhat: This would be enough water to give everyone in a city of 400,000 people all the refreshing baths needed daily for nearly 17 years. . . . Plus the 8 glassfuls of water per day doctors say each person should drink.

A clean body is more apt to be healthy!
